Quick Release Kit

Fixes the annoying and time consuming problem of having to remove your whole strut brace

The new KSB790 Quick Release kit to the product range now makes it so easy to remove your centre strut brace bar.

Designed specifically to suit Whiteline strut braces, the kit is supplied with 2x Quick Release with instructions to convert your existing through bolts.

The QR (Quick Release) clamps make it a breeze to remove oil caps, brake reservoir caps etc for servicing but the main advantage is to be found in the rear of hatch backs and wagons.

These specific targets are where the benefits of rear bracing are particularly important but come at the expense of intrusion into the load carrying space. The other is B-pillar braces which are great for racing but illegal for road use. Using the QR clamps makes it easy to add and remove the brace for competition use.

It is in this area where Whiteline have scored a first by making the QR clamps standard on certain key applications. The new alignment catalogue will contain some new part numbers indicating the standard inclusion of the QR clamps. Just look for the "Q" suffix

Quick Release standard on these strut brace part numbers:

- KSB525Q Civic rear
- KSB529Q Nissan S13/Silvia rear
- KSB535Q Nissan B13/N14 rear
- KSB586Q Subaru WRX GD wagon rear
- KSB590Q Subaru Liberty Forester wagon
- KSB714Q Civic EJ-EK B pillar
- KSB715Q Integra B pillar
